Another Filibustering Expedition Landed in Cuba.

THE CITY OF HOLGUIN CAPTURED and Galy Escape Aunthication by Ficeing-Another Political Prisoner Shot at Matanzas.

Havana, Aug. 18. - The news that Ben Roloff landed an expedition at Las Piedras, coast of Moron, and that Garcia had captured the city of Holguin is true. A hundred Spanish soldiers, who were escorting a convoy from Oanto to Cayamas, Manzanillo, were surrounded by a force of insurgents, who attacked the Spaniards from all sides. The troops sustained heavy losses, much larger than the official figures, which are given as two officers and twenty-one privates killed. The bodies of the dead were left on the field, the troops being compelled to hurriedly retreat to escape annihilation. Rebeis attacked the town of Guira de Melena, in the southern part of the province of Havana, and captured it despite a desperate resistance on the part of the Spanish garrison. A number of stores and dwellings were looted and then burned, after which the rebels retired. No mention is made of losses on either side in the official report, which credits the Spaniards with repuising the rebels, though no explanation is given of the acknowledged fact that the rebels looted and burned stores and dwellings in the \ art of the town. Jose Miquel Carrillo was shot at Matanzas yesterlay for the crime of rebellion and incen-

Filibusters Landed.

Philadelphia. Aug. 18.-Information has just been received here by the Cuban revolutionary party that at expedition, consisting of seventy-five men and a large quantity of war munitions, was lended in Cuba last Thursday. The expedition originally set out from this country and went to a South American port from whence the landing was made. A number of Americans, including several Philadelphians, are said to have been in the STRICKEN CUBA.

New York Health Officer's Investigation of the Pizgue Ridden Island. New York, Aug. 18.-Health officer Havana, Cuba. He said he had only spent two days in Havana, because he found on arrival that it would be impossible for him to reach either Santiago or Cienfuegos, where there are alarming outbreaks of smallpox. He therefore confined his observations to a close inspection of the conditions prevailing at Havana. He found that there was a great deal of yellow fever and smallpox in the city and surrounding conntry. The sanitary conditions were terrible. The whole city's sewage was emptied into the bay and the time was not sufficient to carry it to sea. Consequently the bay was a constant breeder of yellow fever. I wo points in particular were noticeably odensive, opposite the Regna docks and in the vicinity of the military hospitals. Dr. Doty states that any vessels arriving here which were loaded at the docks in these places will be subjected to the most rigorous quarantine. There were 300 cases of yellow fever and 100 deaths reported from the military hospital during the two weeks previous to Dr. Doty's visit. He is confident that the condition of the city of Havana is much worse than in ordinavy summers, as the presence of such a number of unacclimated soldiers has a very bad effect and also the frequent moving of large bodies of military men from one part of the island to another tends to spread disease.

New York's Quarantine Facilities.

It was Dr. Doty's intention to appoint a resident physician to represent him in each of the three cities of Havana, Cienfuegos and Santiago, and he succeeded in securing an eminent medical man in each one of these cities who will regularly report to him the sanitary condition of the towns they represent and also the progress and effectiveness of such measures as the local authorities may take to prevent the spread of disease. Dr. Doty refused to give the names of his representatives for publication, saying that their usefulness to his department might be impaired thereby. There will be no change made in the manner of inspection of Havana vessels at this port. The health officer is satisfied that the present system of detaining all foreign born passengers from Cuba, who have not become acclimated by a ten years' residence in the island, is the best way to insure against the introduction of yellow fever, while in the case of vessels arriving from those ports which are infected with smallpox, a most rigid examination of all on board will be made and where there is the slightest suspicion of infection the vessel will be detained until the full incubative period of fourteen days shall have elapsed from the time the vessel cleared from the port. With the aid of his newly completed fumident that there will be no introduction of the dread disease into this city. He expresses himself as much gratified with the result of his trip.

LI HUNG CHANG'S VISIT.

Ex-Secretary Fosters Knows But Little of the Plaus for His Entertainment.

New York, Aug. 18 -Ex-secretary of state John W. Foster of Indiana was at the Fifth Avenue hotel in this city last evening enroute to Saratoga to actend the meeting of the American Bar association. In regard to the proposed reception to be tendered to L: Hung Chang, the Chinese viceroy, upon the occasion of that distinguished gentleman's visit to this country, Mr. Foster said: The viceroy comes to this country as the nation's guest, and. of course, the government authorities will have full charge of the details of his reception. I can give you but little information on this subject. I know that the president has appointed Gen. Ruger to make the necessary arrangements for a suitable reception and he will probably be able to make public the programme in a few days. Lalso understand that Assistant Secretary of State Rockhill will represent the state department at the reception. President Cleveland will be on hand to receive the nation's guest, but just what will constitute the ceremonies I am not in a position to state. The subject of a private banquet to be tendered to L. Hung Chang by a number of the residents of this city is now being discussed. I believe, and the matter will probably assume definite shape in a day or two. Three former ministers to China are now living in or around New York. They are John itusseil Young, George F. Seward and John E. Ward. These and other gentremen who have resided at times in China are anxious to aonor the viceroy and contribute towards his reception and entertainment."

At the headquarters of the democratic honest money league it was said this morning that the list of vicepresidents for the meeting was growing every hour. It is expected that every state in the union will be represented in the list. It was also announced today that after his speech in Madison Square garden Mr. Cockran would make an extended tour speaking for the cause of sound money in Maryland, Virginia. Ohio, Michigan, Illinois and Indiana. There has been no change in the programme already published. New York, Aug. 18.—Chairman Hauthe republican national committee will not reach headquarters until to-morrow morning. Passed Away From the Stroke of Paralysis of Sunday Morning.

WAS UNCONSCIOUS TO THE END

Few Women Better Known in the Literary World Than "Gail Hamilton"--- some of Her Most Popular Works.

Wenham, Mass., Aug. 18.—"Gail Hamilton," Mary Abigail Dodge, died at 8:55 o'clock last night, without regaining consciousness since she was stricken Sunday morning with paralysis while seated at breakfast. Few women were as well known in he literary world as Mary Abigail Dodge. Besides her writings, she was kept in the public eye by her championship of the interests of women. The fact that she was a cousin of James G. Blaine's wife and spent so much of her life at Washington added to her celebrity. "Gail" is simply ar abbreviation of Abigail, and the name Hamilton she took from the Massachasetts town in which she was born in 1830. Her first experience was as a school teacher. She was an instructor in the Institute for Physical Science in Hartford for several years, beginning in 1851. From Hartford she went to Washington as instructor of the children of Dr. Gamaliel Bailey, the anti-slavery agitator. He was the editor of the National Era and she contributed a great many articles to it. Among her best known works are "Twelve Miles for a Lemon." "Skirmishes and Sketches," "Gala Days" and "Sermons to the Clergy." She had been ailing on and off for a number of years. Until the last illness her most serious attack was in May, 1895, when while stopping with Mrs. Blaine she was stricked with paralysis. After her recovery from sickness last September Miss Dodge wrote a paper on how it feels to be dead. The paper was entitled, "In the Valley of the Shadow of Death," and was read in church in Hamilton by Miss Dodge herself. When she felt bor consciousness departing in a room in the Blaine mansion in Washington, Miss Dodge says she strove with all her might to reach a sofa as she felt that her friends would be doubly horrified upon opening the door to find her lying dead on the floor. She fell before reaching the sofa, but although she was unable to move or speak, she imagined that she was still awake and listening to the voice of one of her brothers who had died a year before, but whom she imagined to be present at the time. She had an unconquerable desire to ask him whether she was really in the world of the dead, but her tongue refused her bidding. She could not ut-

Brooklyn, N. Y., Aug. 18. - The court of inquiry to determine the causes of the accident at dry dock No. 2, Brooklyn navy vard on August 8, is now being conducted. The first witness examined was A. G. Manocal, who was in charge of the department of docks and yards. He testified that he had taken the ballast out of the caisson, but in so doing had been carrying out the orders of his superiors. When asked if his superiors had ordered him to take out all the ballast, he said that directly they had not, but implied that they had, as they told him to scrape the interior of the

GOLD DEMOCRATS.

An Aidress Issued by the National Execu tive Committee at Chicago. Chicago, Aug. 18 .- A meeting of the national executive committee of the gold democratic party was held at the Palmer house last evening. Chairman Bynum of Indiana presided and all the members were present except Charles F. Tracey of New York, who was detained by party work in the metropolis. The principal business which called the committee together was the preparation and adoption of an address to the democratic voters of the country. A sub-committee was chosen to draft the address. Assurances have been received by the committee that the organizations in the following states, which were not represented at Indianapolis, are sufficiently advanced to make it certain they will have full delegations at the convention: Louisiana, North Dakota, Georgia. Mississippi, Colorado, Wyoming and South Carolina. Nothing has been done in Idaho, Utah or Nevada towards organizing and Mr. Byrum said he did not expect to see those states represented at Indianapolis. The expectation is there will be forty-two states to answer to the roil call on September 2. The committee appointed Walter Kessler of Indianapolis sergeant-at-arms for the convention. He is a young man who graduated from Yale and read law and is now in the stone quarry business. Hugh Wallace, who recently resigned his membership in the national democratic committee from Washington because of the silver plank, called when the committee was in session and was invited inside. Chairman Bynum said to a reporter for the United-Associated Presses: New York is the best city for national campaign headquarters, and I shall work and vote for it. Ours will be a campaign of education, and New York is the producing point for most of the literature. The committee could command more assistance in New York than in Chicago. There are to be so many headquarters here that we will get mixed up.

He Tells of Some of His Plans for the Future.

LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE FIRST

On His Way to New England Me Will Speak at Brooklyn, and on Elis Return He Will Deliver Another Address in New York.

Upper Red Hook, N. Y., Aug. 18 .-Here in this little Dutchess county village, six miles from the nearest station on the New York Central railroad, nearly two miles from a branch road of the Philadelphia & Reading, and away from the busy whirl of politics, William J. Bryan has established himself for a week or ten days of quiet to enable him to compose his letter of acceptance. Mr. and Mrs. Bryan are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Perrine. Mrs. Perrine was Mrs. Bryan's teacher at the Female academy in Jacksonville, Ill., the town where the democratic candidate also received the principal part of his education. The candidate and his wife reached Barrytown last eveving by train from Poughkeepsie with Mr. and Mrs. Perrine and T. Cutright. Mr. Bryan's secretary, drove six miles through a beautiful farming country to the home of Mr. Perrine. The Perrine residence is a pretty frame structure, right in the village and adjacent to the general store kept by the nominee's host. Hugh J. Brady, chairman of the St. Louis central committee and a member of the Bryan and Sewall committee on ratification, met Mr. Bryan by accident on the steamer Albany and had dinner with him. Mr. Brady says that Mr. Bryan told him that he will speak in St. Louis between the 10th and 15th of September. In answer to repeated inquiries as to whether he would make reply to the speech to be delivered to-night by Hon. Bourke Cockran, Mr. Bryan said: "Mr. Cockran and I discussed both the silver question and the income tax while in congress. If he advances any new arguments they can go to the country along with my speech of last week. I shall not return to New York until the latter part of September, when I expect to speak briefly in Brooklyn on my way to New England, and in New York on my way

AUNT LIZZIE STUTELY.

Venerable Colored Woman Who Has Met Many Celebrities.

When Young, She Belonged to the Ran-dolphs Who Were at the idead of the Four Hundred of Aute-Bellum Days.

[Special Washington Letter.] Stories of the body servants of George Washington are at last obsolete. When men and women, white or black, live beyond the age of usefulness, when their teeth disappear and their eyes grow dim; when their noses and chins hold rubicand meetings, they no longer claim to have seen and known George Washington. That test of old age has passed away with its mendacious ad-

Elizabeth Stutely is very old, but she never claims to have seen Washington. She remembers the capture of Washington city by the British during the war of 1812, but she was only a little girl, and remembers it mainly because it was talked about constantly for many years afterwards, Aunt Lizzie, as she is known to all her friends, does not know when she was born. She knows nothing of her birthday, but has selected the Fourth of July as her birthday, and always celebrates it from that standpoint, rather han as a national holiday. She says that some one told her when she was young that the Fourth of July was a setter day than any other in the year, and so she selected it as her birthday.

"I belonged to the Randolphs," says Aunt Lizzie. "I was raised in the best Camily in Virginia, and my friends have always been white folks. I don't know low to read, but I know how to talk. for my old Mistress Brokenbrough used o make me talk right. I approse he was as good as other men to have opportunities and power to e bad; but few men are good, esrelally to women.

"I belonged to the Randolphs before he war," continued Aunt Lizzie, "and hat is how I came to be a servant in the amily of Secretary of War John II. laton, whose wife was the great beauty ho broke up President Jackson's cabnet. I have heard a great many wicked hings read about that lady in the newsapers, but I seldom heard good things read about her. She went to her grave ery poor, and I was at her funeral. She was beautiful, and she was warmhearted, too. She did lots of good in the world. Her beautiful daughter, Miss Madge, married Lieut, Randolph, of the navy, and her other daughter, Miss Virginia, married a foreigner in the diplomatic service and went to Eutope. I never saw her again. She was a splendid harpist, a wonderful singer, and a woman of beauty in character, as well as in face and figure. Pcople talked about her, too, but they talk glant all women who are beautiful. heard the play Hambet once, and I emember that Hamlet told a beautifal lady in the play that no matter what she did, she could not escape calumny. That's true. Indeed it is. Generally, however, it comes from women about women. That has been my ex-

"I never had much trouble as a slave." The good negroes were well cared for; and nearly all of them were better off n slavery than since they became free.

They are servants by nature, and by the Bible, and it is hard for them to get plong without the help of the white folks. I was punished sometimes, but generally when I did something to deserve it. Mistress Eaton once got after me when I interfered in the punishment of one of the children, and I went and had myself locked up in jail. That was a sure way for any intelligent col-ored person to call attention to his or her rights.

"I knew Gen. Jackson very well. Mr. O'Neill had a fine farm way out in the country. It is now covered with the finest residences in Washington, and Connecticut avenue, the fashionable street of the northwest, runs through the old farm. There is Dupont circle, the British embassy, the Stewart castile, Blaine's mansion, the home of Senntor Sawyer, and the palaces of Leiter and others who have come here with their millions. The old farmhouse E gone; but I remember it very well There was a splendid well near the house, with an old-fashioned pump Gen. Jackson used to ride out ther on horseback, take a drink from the pump, and then sit on the veranda by the hour talking about everything tha was going on.

"President Van Buren was a peculia: man. He was always very solemu, and seemed to have too much on his mind. or else that his mind wasn't big enougi to carry all the things that were in it President Polk was speaker of the house of representatives, and he was a jolly man with his white friends. He seldom noticed any of the servants. Gen. Jackson knew all of the colored people, and called me Lizzie whenever he saw me. He knew the other sarv ants by their names, too. We all liked him. President Pierce was a handsome man and very popular; but he sometimes got too much liquor into him, and then he was not so handsome. He was always gentlemanly and polite to everybody, and I often heard people who admired him say: 'What a pity he arinks too much,' or words like that. They said that he was a great orator and a good president.

"I saw very little of President Buchanan. He was not much of a man to go calling; leastwise he seldom called at our house, and folks said that he stayed most of the time at the white house. I only saw President Lincoln once, and that was when he was inaugurated. Soon after that I was taken to Virginia, and lived with the Lees until after the war. I was in Richmond when the Yankees came there, and it was an awful time. Everybody was scared. They used to tell us awful stories of what the Yankees would do if they ever caught us. But when the Yankees came into Richmond they didn't do anything but march in and take possession. There was a great deal of excitement, but the Yankees were not bad men at all. They were simply soldiers like our poor rebel soldiers; but they had plenty to eat and good clothes to wear, while our poor rebel soldiers were hungry and almost naked. I never thought the Yankees ought to be so very proud of whipping the rebels at Richmond, for our people were almost famished, while the Yankers had everything that soldiers could

"I never felt so had in my life as I did when the news came that President Lincoln had been killed. I cried, and all the colored people cried. We didn't know just why we cried, but all of us felt that Mr. Lincoln was our friend, and we were looking for good times as soon as the war was all over. Gen. Grant was a great man, and we all felt that he would take care of us; but the colored people believed that Mr. Lincoln was our best friend.

"No, I never saw Gen. Grant when he was in Virginia; but I saw him in Washington after the war; and I saw him often when he was president. He used to drive about the city with his fast horses, and he was very fond of having pretty girls with him. I think he was the last president who has gone driving about the city with perfect freedom. The others all keep themselves away from the people, so that nobody knows them even by sight. "Yes, I am growing very old. I feel that I have done my work, and that the good Lord will take care of me when I am called away. I have been a Christian for many a year, and whether free or slave, I feel that I am under the shadow of His wing, and that He will gather me up when all nations will be known as His children. Somehow, in His own way, on the other shore, the nations will be changed and be equal as His children; but they are not all equal here, and they ought not to think so."

Aunt Lizzie evidently descended from one of the best tribes in Africa, for she is of superior mental fiber. There is no white blood in her veins. She is black, but her head is finely formed, and her eyes are as brilliant and expressive as the eyes of any of her elderly white friends. She belongs to the Baptist church, and is a regular attendant. But, aside from her church associations, she seeks the society of the white people, and she is welcome in many nomes of the old families of Washington.

QUIBBLES IN CRIMINAL CASES.

Proper Legal Safeguards Prostituted for the Protection of the Guilty.

The sixth amendment to the constitution of the United States provides that in all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation against him. This is a principle of English jurisprudence older by some hundreds of years than our constitution. It is a sound principle, and one which no people loving justice and liberty can afford to surrender.

Arguments are not necessary to bolster such a provision of the organic law, but were such arguments needed none better could be found that the two reasons for the rule given by criminal law writers-that the accused may have opportunty to meet a certain and specific charge, first, in order to prepare his defense and summon his witpesses to meet the charge, and, second, thatif it sought to try him a second i me for the same offense he may have no difficulty in proving that it is the same offense, and thus escape being put twice in jeopardy.

Simple and plain as are these reasons, which have become crystallized into rules of law and which are such as naturally commend themselves to everyone, yet they have been made the pretext for the existence of most, if not all, of the quibbles and artifically refined niceties of criminal pleading that enable the adroit criminal lawyer to shield from punishment those noteriously guilty who dare not stand upon the simple issue of guilt or innocence. How numerous such cases are even a slight acquaintance with criminal courts and criminal methods will demonstrate. How successful such quibbling is in shielding crime is notorious.

A few illustrations of criminal convictions which have been set aside because the indictment was not sufficiently specific or because it charged an offense which was not proven at the trial may not be amiss in showing to what extent criminal courts go in their fanciful interpretations of the apparently simple and logical basic rules of criminal law given above:

"P. was indicated for the murder of Robert Kain. The case was fully proven, except that none of the witnesses for the prosecution identified the murdered man as Robert Kain. They knew him simply as Kain and did not know his Christian name. The conviction was set aside.

"In a case of larreny the indictment charged that the defendant stole a gray gelding. The proof went no further than to show that it was a gray horse. Conviction set aside.

"In another case of borse stealing the indictment charged that the horse was the property of A. As a matter of fact, it was the property of A and B. Again the conviction set aside. "An indictment charged one with suborning J. S. of W., to commit perjury. It was proven that J. S. lived at X. The convention was set aside, though it would have been good if J. S.'s residence had not been mentioned. "An indictment for arson which failed to state the name of the occupant of the house burned was held insufficient to support a conviction, though the fact was fully brought out in evi-

LI'S OPPOSITION TO WAR.

Ohina's Greatest General is Preeminent ly a Man of Peace.

Ex-Secretary John W. Foster contributes a sketch of "The Viceroy LA Hung Chang" to the Century. Mr. Forter says:

"Although the greatest general his country has produced in this century, he is preeminently a man of peace. Contucius, whose disciple he is proud to call himself, taught the folly of war, and the practice of the government and Chinese society in this respect is inspired by his teachings. While Japan has exalted the warlike spirit, and there the soldier is the idol of the people, in China the soldier is lightly esteemed, and always takes rank below the literary class. But notwithstanding this peaceful spirit, there is often a war party in China, and on two or three memorable occasions it has fallen to the lot of Viceroy Li to be placed in antagonism to it.

"The Kuldja question, about 1880, with Russia, and it was only by his most retive resistance to the war party at Peking that a peaceful settlement was reached. It is now well known that he opposed the late hostilities with Japan. The government of the latter during the progress of the war obtained possession of and published certain memorials to the throne, dated in 1882, and forwarded by the viceroy, which looked to the ultimate invasion of Japan; but at best it was merely an inchoate scheme and probably encouraged by the viceroy to aid his projects for the defense of the approaches to Peking. He had a better I nowledge of the military strength of Japan and of the weakness of China than any other of the emperor's adisers, and he feared the consequences o his country of a conflict."

THE WILY SEAL.

How He Manages to Catch Sea Gulls Enawares.

The seal is probably the clumsiest anmal in the world, says the New York Recorder. He likes to bask in the sun all day and when he moves he is exceedngly sluggish and awkward. It has often been wondered now this animal manages to secure its favorite food, wild sea fowl.

Sea gulls are so wild that it is diffiult even for man to get within gunshot of one. The seal seems to realize that it would be a waste of time to attempt to crawl up on the gulls as they rest upon the water and catch them unawares. So he watches until the gulls are soaring slowly through the air and lose to the waves. Then the scal dives into the sea and swims underneath the auter for some distance. By the time he has managed to swim about 100 feet the gull has forgotten the presence of its enemy. This gives the seal his opportunity. He cautiously rises to the surface of the water at some distance from the point at which he dived, and llows merely the tip of his great nose o appear above the water.

Remaining in this position, he gives his enormous body a rotary motion, so that his nose describes a circle on the surface of the ocean. He does this so skillfully that to the gull his nose looks like a fish at play. This catches the gull's eye, and it at once darts down with the speed of an arrow, aiming traight for the little dot. The seal sees it coming and sinks a few inches, and as the gull strikes the water with tremendous force the seal's jaws close spward and the gull disappears.

FOSSIL MEAL.

A New German Product Which Has Many Uses.

A new product, called fossil meal, is eing introduced from Germany for preenting the loss of heat from radiation which takes place to so large an extent from the uncovered surfaces of boilers, steam pipes, cylinders, and steam plaut generally. It consists of infusorial earth, obtained from certain mines in Hanover, combined with other substances to secure greater strength and cohesiveness. This infusorial earth is composed of millions of minute organsms, whose hollow form gives to the fossil meal its high porosity, and consequently its non-conducting power. not confined to the manufacture of nonconducting composition for steam pages and engine and boiler surfaces. It is used in safe making as a fire-resisting compound, and by explosive manufacturers in the production of dynamite. It is in demand for cold storage purposes, for covering cold pipes from contact with the warmer external air. It is also employed in chemical manufacture, as a preventive against damp: for cleaning glass and metal; as a tooth easter it is made up into blotting paper, and it is employed in the manufacture of scaling way. It makes up into a firebries of one-fifth the ordinary weight, with a fire-resisting quality qual to that of quartz. It has many other uses, one of which is filtration and it is being utilized for the domestic purification of water.

J. Sloat Fassett is to take part in the Maine campaign. Remembering an incl-Down Easters?

Mayor Patrick Jerome Gleason, of Long Island City, is reported to be out against Bryan. It has not yet been announced in what way the free silver candidate and platform offend the delicate moral sense of this political purist.

Very litt'e interest has been manifested as yet in local politics. We have, however, inside information that some Re. publican officials who expect renomination and are keeping their fingers on the popular pulse are becoming very uneasy at the growth of free silver sentiment in this county, and are nothing like so sure of a walkover as they were a few weeks

In these times when the gold men are so fond of setting up what they call "object lessons," the common people can look at the object lesson on the bulk of the paper money they use, where are printed the words "one silver dollar," "five silver dollars" or whatever the denomination may happen to be, and consider for themselves whether silver money is really so bad a thing as it is painted.

Canal patronage was a potent factor in the Republican primaries in Montgomery county, yesterday. Never before has there been such a scandal over the use of public funds for political ends as has been caused by Aldridge's manipulation of canal work to advance his political aut bitions. If he is nominated for Governor his abuse of his office as Superintendent of Public Works eight to insure his defeat.

There is no doubt that the delegates from this Assembly district to the State convention will be in favor of the endorsement of Bryan and Sewall. It is not likely that the few gold Democrats in the district will make any attempt to elect delegates or to influence the action of the convention in any way for they realize that Democratic sentiment in the district is practically unanimous in layor of the Chica o ticket. If an attempt should be made to send gold delegates to the Buhalo convention there would be such an uprising of free silver Democrats as the district has never seen and each and every one of them would make it his personal care to see that the district was not misrepresented.

From all the country towns of this county come reports of the growth and spread of the not silver sentiment, and suless the tide turns (and of this there are no signs) the vote for Bryan and Sewall in the farming districts will surprise the politicians. Parry tales of the blessings of protection do not interest the larmers this year. They have seen themselves growing poorer under both high tarius and low turits, and they realize that reher from conditions that oppress them must come not through tatifichanges but through a return to the comage of silver, for they recall that before the single gold standard was established they were prosperous and blessed with plenty

President Andrews, of Brown University, who tayors nee silver comage, says that there is no reason to fear that opening the musts to silver will drive gold out of circulation, for he says no one will hoard or export gold in the face of a movement that is certain to cheap in that n.etal. Moreover, he believes that the rehabilitation of silver by the United States will set mer vast amounts of gold now hoarded for military and other purposes. President Andrews sees no danger in the increased output of silver that would follow free coinage. Only the most prolific silver mines are now worked, and any increase in the silver output would, he says, be followed by such an increased cost of production that all tendency from this source to lower the gold price of silver would be nega-

A tramp with a keen sense of humor, and who had evidently devoted his abundant leisme to reading gold standard newspaper, which refer business reverses of any and all kinds to the agitation for free silver, astonished a New York Police Justice before whom he was arraigned, yesterday, by the explanation which he gave for his vagrancy. He said his vocation was picking blossoms from century plants, and that the uncertainty as to the maintenance of the gold standard had ruined his business and made him a tramp. There is just as much sense in the fellow's whimsical tale as in the gold organs' stories of the ills they claim have

From the Albany Argus-It is not generally expected that any of the New England States will go Democratic next November, but in at least one of them, in New Hampshire, the peril to the Republicans is so great that Senator Chandler, who is a wily and practical Republican leader, advises concessions to the gold Democrats, by giving them a share of the McKinley electoral ticket. This indicates that a considerable number of the Republicans in the Granite State must be flocking to the standard of Bryan and Sewall, and tree coinage. Nobody can believe that if the Republicans were united, Mr. Chandler would advocate offering such liberal terms to any part of his old emenies. The farmers in New Hampshire are no doubt largely dent in his disastrous tiger hunt he will in sympathy with their brother agriculkeep his coat on while haranguing the turists in other States, and no man can foretell with any degree of confidence what the result will be, until the vote is

REALIZING THE SITUATION. From the Albany Argus.

Mr. Hanna seems to be getting his eyes opened to the true situation. At first he thought it would be an easy thing to get McKinley elected, but, in his latest published interview, he says: "There is go ing to be a hard contest:" and he evideutly despairs of Michigan, for he says: "We have as good a chance to carry Texas as Michigan." In view of the fact that in the presidential election of 1892 Michigan gave a Republican plurality of 20,412, while Texas gave a Democratic plurality of 157,704, Mr. Hanna's diagnosis of the present condition of affairs in Michigan in significant.

NO PROTECTION FOR THE FARMER From the Albany Argus.

Representative Mahon, of Chambersville, Pa., claims that there is no silver talk among the farmers in his district; that they "believe that if the tariff question was settled there would be no trouble with finances." Settled how? Was ever a tariff framed yet that helped thefarmer to any considerable extent? How can the tarmer benefit by buying his machinery and his clothing in a high-protected market while selling his butter and cheese to "free trade" England?

THE DIFFERENCE.

From the Memphis Commercial-Appeal The difference between Bryan and Me-Kinley is this: Bryan is an avowed silver man running on a silver platform, while McKinley is a silver man keeping quiet so that he can run on a gold plat-

UPPER RID HOOK, Aug. 18.-Two thousand persons from the surrounding country and villages came in yesterday and last night to see Bryan. The crowd listened intently to Bryan's speech, but showed no enthusiasm until he had concluded when there was bearty cheering.

Bryan came here for quiet but is somewhat dubious of the prospect. He will set to work composing his letter of aceptance without delay and will probably largely periect his plans for the campaign while here.

This afternoon Bryan has gone to Spring Lake to fish. He expects to go to the Catskills Wednesday or Thursday.

Complete Description of the Process of Incineration.

The Method Much More Popular Than It Was Five Years Ago -Number of Crematories Now in Active Operation.

[Special Chicago Letter.]
With the rise of Christianity and the belief in the doctrine of resurrection, the ancient custom of burning the dead fell into disuse. Inhumation took the place of incineration. The modern world has, however, disearded their crude conception of the meaning of resurrection and also knows full well that in less than 50 years the body secreted beneath the sod will decompose into its elements as surely as the corpse exposed on the funeral pyre. But the custom of 1,500 years is not easily overcome and the medieval prejudice against cremation still remains.

It was not until the latter half of the present century that the agitaion in favor of consigning the corpse to the flames began. Jacob Moleschott, the Dutch-Italian scientist, was the apostle of the movement. Progressive men in Italy took up his cause and in 1876 the first crematory of modern times, i.e., in Christain countries, was put into operation at Milan. Later in the same year a crematory was built at Washington, Pa., and a third at Gotha, Germany, in

Since then the movement has grown rapidly. The United States is the foremost champion, with Italy a close secend. Cremation societies have been founded in nearly every country of the globe. In the United States there are over 20 such societies, and a class paper published in Chicago, Park and Cemetery, devotes a portion of each issue to the subject.

A cremation is no such hideous spectacle as one might imagine; in fact, its associations are not near as gloomy as those of the earth burial. When the funeral procession arrives at the crematory, the coffin is first taken into the chapel and placed upon a bier. If so desired, a final ceremony to correspond to that at the grave is performed, and then the bier bearing the coffin is lowered by a hydraulic system to the floor below.

Sometimes the corpse is taken out of the coffin and wrapped in asbestos, but usually coffin and all are burned together. Only the chief mourners are allowed at the scene of cremation. The coffin with its contents is placed upon a sliding frame and shoved up to the doors of the retort, which are then opened. No fire is visible. But the air is so intensely heated, from 2,000 to 2,700 degrees Fahrenbeit, that a beautiful rosy light bathes the interior of the furnace. The retort has average dimensions of ten by five by five feet. It is lined with fire clay and has an outer wall of fire brick.

It takes about two hours to complete the cremation. The process may be witnessed through a window of mica. In many furnaces no fire touches the body; the superheated air alone does the work. There are two fires, one below and one behind and above the corpse. Coal oil is the usual fuel. The rear fire is fed by air obtained through loopholes in the rear of the furnace. It shoots its flames to the front and carries the gases from the body with it. These are driven down into the opening in front, which leads through the under fire back to the chimney in the rear of the refort. So perfect and so powerfuls is the ventliation that not a particle of gas can escape without passing through both fires and being entirely neutralized by oxidation.

When all the combustible material has been driven off, the furnace is cooled off and the ashes are gathered. The ashes of the corpse are white, those of the clothes and coffin black. The white ashes weight form five to eight pounds. They are picked out with metal tongues and returned to the relatives in metal receptacles. The remains are variously disposed of. They may be buried in a grave with another member of the family or in a space set apart for this purpose by cemetery companies. The ancient custom of preserving the ashes in urns has, however, the greatest favor. The price of urns ranges from one dollar to fabulous sums. They are to the erematory what marble monuments are to the cemetery, and as many people cannot be content without a sacrifice of wealth for the deceased ingenious devices have been found to make the urns if not more beautiful, at least more

In New York a columbatium has been built-the cremation cemetery. The columbarium is a large stone building whose inner walls are indented with 600 niches in which the urus may be kept. Thus the sentiment which demands some token of remembrance of the deceased is satisfied by the return to an ancient and poetic custom.

With a few notable exceptions, the chur h has shown itself apathetic toward the growing practice of eremation. But there are prominent ministers of all denominations who have spoken in favor of it. The pope has declared against cremation, but as it is a question of practice rather than of docurine, the Catholic church may at any time change its attitude. Strange to say, one of the most enlightened governments of the world, that of Prussin will permit no cremations in its territories. There is a columbarium in Berlin, but the incinerations take place at Hamburg, Gotha or Heidelburg.

The better educated people of all countries are to a large extent in favor of the reform, but its more rapid spread is hindered by the fact that in ninetynine cases out of a hundred in which the deceased preferred cremation withoutdirectly ordering it, the execution of his wish is prevented by the opposition of some more or less distant relative.

In this country the practice of cremation has grown more rapidly than anywhere else with the exception, perhaps, of Italy. From 1876 to 1884 there was but one crematory in the United States. then a second was built at Lancaster. Pa., and a third at New York. The twenty-second has just been completed at Milwaukee. Nine hundred and fiftyfour voluntary cremations took place in 1895, as against 25 in the nine years from 1876 to 1885. Forty-six hundred and forty-seven cremations, of which 1,635 fell to New York, is the total to January 1 of this year. The twenty-two American crematories are located at Washington, Pa., Philadelphia, Pittsburgh. Pa., Lancaster, Pa., New York city (at Fresh Pond, L. I.), Buffolo, N. Y., Troy, N. Y., Swinburne Island, N. Y., Waserville, N. Y., Los Angeles and Pasndena, Cal., and two at San Francisco. St. Louis, Boston, Cincinnati, Chicago, Detroit, Baltimore, Davenport, Ia., Ft. Wayne, Ind., Milwaukee. There are three crematories in Germany, and about 25 in Italy, with a total number of cremations almost equal to those of the United States. Other crematories are located at London, Glasgow, Paris.

Copenhagen and Stockholm. In reality it is the old country that most needs the reform. The tilthiness and infections character of cemeteries increases with the thickness of popula-About 5,000 cubic feet of gas are given off by a decaying human body and must find an outlet somewhere. Some of it rises out of the ground and pollutes the air above and about the burial ground. while a part presses laterally until it finds an opening generally through a spring or well through which it escapes. The danger from such drinking water is extreme. Very frequently the peculiar sulphurous taste of polluted well water is mistaken for health-giving mineral. So well known is this danger that all over crowded Europewe find regulations prohibiting cometeries within 300, 500 or even 5,000 feet of private dwellings. One hundred and fifty years after the great plague of London, the cemetery was dug up and every workman employed on the job died of the disease. The miasmatic atmosphere that hovers above a cemetery is swept along by the wind, and infectious diseases are almost certain to reappear where victims are luried. The problem of economy in land is intimately connected with that of hygiene. In the old and densely populated districts of Europe it has led to the most outrageous abuses. It is but a few years ago that the English government found a large district in a London cemetery filled with 14 layers of coffins, packed side by side, one generation directly on top of the other, with just enough soil to intervene so that the relatives of the last arrival could not detect the fraud.

It has been estima#ed that 47,000,600 people die annually, and that it takes 21 square miles to bury them. Twentyone square miles a year are thus taken from the living, and the country within a radius of half a mile is made practically uninhabitable. E. T. GUNDLACK.

New Theory of Sunstroke. An English physician has discovered

ing light rays and not by heat at all. The face of a victim of sunburn is not only swollen, but pitted, and at the bottom of each pit the microscope discloses a freckle. The physician who has made this interesting discovery claims that sunstroke can be averted by wearing a hat and clothes of an orange hue. No

NO TAX ON SWEET CIDER.

It Can be Made and Sold Without a Raines Law Tax Certificate.

In answer to many inquiries State Excise Commissioner Lyman has explained the application of the Raines law to eider. The law does not require a cer ificate for the manufacture and sale of any kind of liquor or the sale in quantities of five wine gallons or over, and, therefore, the manufacture of sweet cider, which is in no sense a "liquor" under this law, is wholly exempt from a liquor tax. The sale or traffic in sweet, or untermented cider, in any quantity, does not therefore require a liquor tax certificate. Ulder in its natural process passess through an organic chemical change called fermentation, and not before that change is sufficiently completed to render it what is known as "hard cider," does the law classify it as a "liquor," and require a certificate to leaglize its sale in quantity under five wine gallons. Sales of hard eider in quantities of five wine gallons or over are entitled to the same exemption as any other kind of liquor, and do not require a liquor tax certificate. but in order to lawfully sell hard eider in quantities of less than five gallons a tax certificate is needed.

A RECORD BREAKING BASS.

The Largest Bass Caught in Greenwood Lake in Recent Years.

Alderman William Stalter, of Paterson, caught. Saturday evening, an Oswego or big mouth bass in Greenwood Lake that weighed seven and a half pounds. It is the largest bass caught in the lake with hook and line in recent years. Mr. Stalter was fishing opposite Cooper's place, at the lower end of the lake, with a live frog for bait, and was using an eight ounce steel rod and a small trout line. The big bass, after striking, towed the boat, with three men in it, against the wind for fifteen minutes. There was no landing net in the boat, and in order to secure the prize one of Mr. Stalter's companions went overboard after it, and after much difficulty succeeded in getting his hand into its mouth and threw it into the boat.

Arrested for Stealing a Bicycle.

A young man named H. Dollner, on Friday, hired a wheel of John Orben, of Port Jervis, to ride to Lackawaxen, promising to return in the evening, but

Saturday an employe of Orben went to Lackawaxen, where he learned that Dollner had sold the wheel for $5, and started east on a freight train. Saturday afternoon Dollner was seen standing at the Eric depot, in Port Jervis, and was arrested and locked up, and yesterday was sent to Goshen to await the action of the Grand Jury.

Overrun by Hordes of Tramps.

Tramps are beginning to flock into the hop picking districts of Central New York. They literally swarm on railroad trains and so terrorize the employes that when a gang boards a train they make no effort to prevent them riding as far as they wish to go. They are so numero is in many places that they are regarded as a menace to the safety of homes.

Coney Island Excursion.

The next Coney Island excursion will be run by the O. and W. on Friday, August 21st, at the exceedingly low rate of $1.00 for the round trip. Train leaves Middletown at 8:25 a. m. Returning leaves Coney Island (Long Island Railrond depot) at 4:30 p. m. Excursionists will have five hours on the beach to bathe and take in the many attractions of this noted place.
